Communicating with Peers

Practical Activity: Change of Respirators in the UCIP

- Problem addressed: Change of respirators in the UCIP for some that are more expensive and that it seems that they had caused some problem in another hospital
- Soft skill: inspiring moral trust
- Method: simulation

It is about a person interpreting the role of medical manager in a debriefing to other medical professionals and nursing convincing them of the advantages that would have to establish a new system of pediatric ventilators. The public will oppose because of the high price and fame acquired of such systems. The manager will have to convince them of the goodness of the change by claiming that he or she has previously worked with these systems and they perform well.
